

I believe that censoring is wrong. Parents are given tools to 'Protect' their kids from watching certain programs, with DVD lock outs as well as E-Chips in modern TVs, Satellite Lock outs, as well as Cable Box lock outs. Parents are becoming lazy and want the government to step in, and that is a problem. Children shouldn't raise themselves. It is the parents job to choose what their kids to watch, and it is unconstitutional for the government to tell me what I can and cannot watch. Look at European nations. The programming there is 10 times worse than here, and there are fewer problems there than here. Perhaps more attention should be given to education instead of blowing money to push through mandates.
